LODI ACADEMY

01/26/2024

Ecclesiastes 12:12-14: “. . . of making many books there is no end, and much study is wearisome to the flesh. Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God and keep His commandments, for this is man’s all. For God will bring every work into judgment, including every secret thing, whether good or evil.”

“Much study is wearisome to the flesh!” Here is a Bible verse that I suspect some students would really agree with! King Solomon, in all of his life experience and wisdom, discovered that the search for knowledge without context is exhausting. The life context for learning is essential for giving our learning meaning.

For millennia education focused on learning facts and information to then use in a useful way. Today information is everywhere. In our information age we have so much information that we are immediately overwhelmed unless we know how to sort through information, find what is relevant and discover how to apply it to our lives.

Lodi Academy’s motto is “The school that trains for service.” This motto can be traced back to the beginning of Lodi Academy, over 115 years ago. This motto today is still relevant because the purpose of education is not to memorize copious amounts of information but to know how to use the knowledge gained to serve God and serve others.

Going back to Ecclesiastes 12:13: “Fear God and keep His commandments, for this is man’s all.” Our calling in the context of our relationship with God, because of what He has done for us in offering us salvation, is to respect (fear) God and follow his guide for a healthy, happy, successful life (keep His commandments).

The focus of education at Lodi Academy is to gain knowledge, skills, and experience to use to serve God and others! The evidence we see of this success is seeing Lodi Academy students and alumni serving in our community, pursuing college education that prepares them for serving others.
